Mr. D. was thought that it would result finally in the entire exclusion of the female sex from the departments.

The announcement was prevailed, — to

The next amendment, being an appropriation for the extension of the Capitol grounds, was adopted by a large majority.

Mr. Carpenter said that if the proposition to locate the Capitol here was made to the Representatives of Iowa, Missouri, Indiana and other Western States, it would take them 25 years to agree upon a site. He thought Milwaukee was the only place entitled to it; but could not get any one in the Senate except his college, to agree with him (Laughter).

Mr. Morrill thought that it was understood by everybody that if they removed the Capitol to Portland, it would be (Laughter).

Finally the amendment was carried off to

The next amendment — the appropriation of $100,000 in aid of the Great Northern Pacific — was advocated by Sumner, Yates and Sawyer as a National contribution in the interests of science.

The Secretary offered an amendment to the expedition, which a view to discovering the North Pole, measuring its length and circumference, and, if practicable bring it to this country.

Mr. Drake suggested to add the words "to houses as a library pole" and other unnecessary remarks were made.

Mr. Morrill and Mr. Rogers agreed to — to

Mr. Morrill, of Maine, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported with amendments the House bill to supply the deficiency in the appropriation for the salaries of Representatives. The amendments appropriate $150,000 to supply the deficiency in the amount, required this year to pay for the collection of custom duties, and $25,000 to pay the special counsel employed by the Treasury.

Mr. Sumner, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, reported, without amendment, the bill appropriating $325,000 in gold to pay the Government of Great Britain the amount awarded under the treaty of July 18, 1853, to settle the claims of the Hudson Bay Company, and of the Pigot Sound agricultural company.

The amendment increasing the salaries of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States to $10,000 a year; Associate Judges, $8,000; Circuit Judges, $6,000; Justices of the Court of Claims and the District of Columbia Judges, $5,000, dating from July 1st, 1870, was adopted. — to 10.

Mr. Morrill, of Maine, then presented an appropriation for the branch mint at Charlotte, N. C. and increasing the salary of the Assistant Treasurer at New Orleans.

Mr. Morrill, of Maine, then presented a bill to raise the salary of the United States Treasurer from $5,500 to $8,000.

Mr. Trumbull suggested that as the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations seemed to have thrown aside all ideas of retrenchment and was raising the salaries all round, he ought to include those of Congressmen.

The amendment was rejected.

The evening session was devoted to the District of Columbia business.

The bill to provide a government for the District, consisting of a Mayor, Secretary and Legislative Assembly was passed, and after an executive session of three minutes the Senate adjourned.

MONDAY.

Mr. Cassius M. Egan, from the Committee on Elections, made a report from South Carolina protested election case of Wallace against Simpson, declaring A. C. Wallace was duly elected, and entitled to a seat. He moved that the case be referred to a committee. The motion was seconded and the resolution was adopted. When the Democratic members realized what had been done, Messrs. Randall of Penn., and Brooks of N. Y., remonstrated with the majority against it, and a motion to reconsider was made when there was a brief discussion.

Mr. Randall admitted that Mr. Simpson could not take the case, but that he was an officer in the Confederate army, but contended the Reconstruction Committee forfeited removing his disabilities for which he had been placed and voted in the Legislature, and had honestly and firmly aided in the reconstruction measures.

Mr. Brooks of N. Y., denounced the operation as a fraud, and said that Simpson had never charged upon him in New York. It was an attempt to deprive the minority of the House by forcing on that body another member elected by the people, and the Republicans and representing nothing whatever.

Mr. Dargess of Mass. repudiated the principle embodied in the report, that the majority of the persons present at the election, number of votes, gave his seat to the person having the next highest number.

Mr. Cassius of Pa. reminded the house that he had already said that Simpson had part of the report represented only his own views, also that on two or three occasions he had distinctly stated that the case would not be referred to the committee. All that he wanted was that the House should continue no more time in the matter.

After further discussion by Messrs. Faine and Brooks, Mr. Howard came forward and took the chair.

The bill annulling the laws of the Territory of Idaho, except persons of the Chinese or Mongolian race, was reported by the Committee on Foreign Affairs, referring to the President the positions of William J. Noyes and John Warden, citizens of the United States, and now prisoners in Great Britain, with the proposition that such action may be taken in accordance with international law with the right of American citizenship as the facts shall justify, was agreed. A few remarks were made for a change of vote after the announcement of the result, and also the forbidding of a members vote who is not present when the vote is taken.

The House then adjourned until the 15th of the Conference Committee report on the 15th amendment, but which was defended and explained by Mr. Bingham of Ohio, and Mr. Davis of N. Y., and was then adopted and opposed by Mr. Kerr of the Committee.

Messrs. Beck, Foster, Cox and Cox, Democratic members, argued against the report as establishing new territory for the Chinese as a measure exceeding the constitutional authority of Congress and not susceptible of honest and efficient enforcement.

Mr. Bingham closed the debate by replying to the arguments against the bill. He denied it gave any encouragement, to informers and declared that in no instance of Mr. Curran was he weak enough or foolish enough to suppose that his burning and immoral views in denunciation of the informers, could apply to the case of a citizen who appealed to the tribunal of justice for the protection of his right or redress of his wrongs. He asked, when and where liberty had found shelter on this planet, have under no shelter and hard on the law another man could stand.

Mr. Eldridge — Never under an empire.

Mr. Bingham — The word "empire" has no terror for me when applied to that empire whose empire is the world, and whose power is the halo in the hands of oppression.

Mr. Eldridge — Under this bill it is an empire of despotism and you know it, and that is the reason you advocate it.

Mr. Bingham replied to the remarks of the Conference Committee: was then agreed to 133 to 55, a strict party vote.

The House then adjourned until Tuesday.
